A FORTUNE FOR RESCUER.

"Wanted—Lawrence Mayhorn."

"John A. Serile wants the party named above, who saved his life on Fifth avenue, Pittsburg, on Labor Day, eight years ago. If he is still living and will come to Chicago as soon as he can he will become heir to $160,000 as sole heir of John A. Serile, who is an invalid and would like to see the young man and thank him again for his heroic act. Hoping to see him soon."

Yours,
"1917 Sixty-ninth street, Chicago, Ill."
The above advertisement was received by a Pittsburg newspaper several days ago and a staff correspondent was put on the trail of Lawrence Mayhorn. The man has been found on a wretched farm in the mountain settlement of Ohio, Payette county, Pa., and with an injured back. He related the story of his warding off an attack on Mr. Serile, who was unknown to him. As he was walking up Fifth avenue in the Labor Day crowds an Italian jostled the old man, pulled a knife and struck him in the right side.

"Instantly I struck the foreigner a blow with my fist on the neck and he fell to the ground face downward. The knife flew out of his hand into the street. I held the man down and with my foot pushed the satchel in the direction of the old man, telling him to pick it up and go away."

It happened that a policeman whom Mayhorn knew came up at the moment and arrested the foreigner.

Mayhorn says if he recovers enough to stand the journey he will hurry to Chicago this week to see his benefactor.

SUICIDES OF VASSAR GIRL.

Miss Ada Brooks, daughter of Edward Brooks, of Porter road, a freshman at Vassar College, committed suicide in Andover, Mass., last night by shooting herself through the right temple with a revolver.

The girl who had been on leave of absence from college on account of sickness, left the sitting room where her father and mother were reading at 10 o'clock to retire. The parents were startled to hear a revolver shot from the upper floor.

Rushing upstairs they found the door of her room locked. Both father and mother called to her in frantic screams, but a low moan hardly audible through the door, was their only answer.

The father ran to the cellar, got an axe and smashed in the door of the girl's bedroom. Stretched out on her bed, already dead, they found the young girl, the side of her head blown nearly off and a .38 caliber revolver at her side.

Miss Brooks entered Vassar last fall, well up in the ranks of the entering class. During the first few weeks she found it easy to keep her place with the other girls.

Finally the pressure to win first place in her class told on her health, and six weeks ago she was compelled to withdraw from school on account of nervous collapse. Her forced leave of absence increased her despondency.

Make a note now to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with nasal catarrh, hay fever or cold in the head. It is purifying and soothing to the sensitive membrane that lines the air passages. It is made to overcome the disease, not to fool the patient by a short, deceptive relief. There is no cocaine nor mercury in it. Do not be talked into taking a substitute for Ely's Cream Balm. All druggists sell it. Price 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 55 Warren Street, New York.

SCIENCE HEALER A SUICIDE.

That Miss Marion Stephens, one of the foremost "healers" of the Christian Science Church, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Weeks, in New York, committed suicide by inhaling gas, became known yesterday.

Though a friend of Mrs. Augustus S. Stephens, excommunicated leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Miss Stephens held her allegiance to the church. A friend of the dead woman said yesterday that Miss Stephens had told her a week ago she was still loyal to the church, but her love for Mrs. Stephens was so strong that, unless she could find a way to reconcile these conflicting claims, she felt she would have to take her own life.

Miss Stephens was one of the first to oppose Mrs. Stephens, but was won back to her standard. In the heat of the Eddy-Stephens controversy Miss Stephens went to Elmhurst to keep out of the trouble. She returned only a few weeks ago.

LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT.

The greatest missionary campaign ever conducted in the United States to a close in New York last week. The campaign was known as the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and was confined entirely to the Protestant churches. The efforts of those interested centered principally in the endeavor to raise more funds than in former years for world evangelization. Conventions were held in 75 different cities, and the total amount pledged for the work was $6,000,000. The usual subscription has been $3,000,000.

An informal conference of the men who have conducted this campaign was recently held in New York, at which nearly all the missionary societies in the United States were represented. It was practically decided that the next step in the movement will be the conservation of forces already set at work and the holding of conventions in the many towns where none has been held. It was also planned to hold a Men's National Missionary Congress in Chicago next week. Special work, too, will be done during the next few months in the way of training laymen as leaders.

In a forceful sermon preached Sunday in the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, in Philadelphia, Rev. H. Page Dyer depicted "What will happen at the Judgment Day."

"It is set forth in the Scriptures," he said, "that a warning of the coming judgment shall be given by a shining forth in the eastern sky of a cross and the blaring of an angel's trumpet. These warning shall be accompanied by a crashing of earth and sky, at which the sun shall turn as black as the sackcloth of night. There will be wonders among the dead. Their corpses will rise out of cemeteries and oceans and come for judgment. Then we will see a great and glorious throne, upon which shall sit Jesus Christ as God and Judge, and about it will be 12 other thrones for the 12 apostles. The judgment shall be entirely reasonable and just. Every man will be rewarded according to his works. The small and the great shall fare alike, the employer and the laborer, the tilling capitalist and the industrial slave. For every deed done in the body shall man give account; yes, even for every idle word."

"They come high." "The best are the cheapest." Our people want them and as we say to the ladies you can see J. & T. Cousins' Exclusive Styles at 422 King street, J. A. Marshall & Bro.
